1803/34

To receive update on appointment of Architect and Project Manager for the Replacement of the Beechfield Centre Project

Quotations were circulated for consideration. Members were informed that the quotations allowed for one architect to take the project forward through Building Regulations, Tender process and contract administration/project management. Members' attention was draw to the likely additional costs not covered within the architects' fees such as Structural Engineers and Quantity Surveyors etc. It was noted that the Clerk had met with two of the architects that had provided quotations and was confident that they had understood the project, it was further noted that both these companies have an excellent reputation. After careful consideration and comparison of the quotations it was resolved, with no votes to the contrary, to appoint Woodward Smith Chartered Architects to take the project forward, the Committee felt that the companies were reputable, however, the fee proposal was significantly lower.
