

North Devon Council and Torrington District Council are running a 'Find Your Footprint' week starting from Saturday 17 October.

"Find your Footprint" is a joint project between the two councils and local environmental entrepreneur, Mukti Mitchell that aims to make reducing your carbon footprint easy and fun. The project has been launched in response to the national climate emergency declared across the UK by local authorities including the two councils.

The project kicks off with "Find your Footprint" week from 17-24 October. Individuals and organisations can find out their carbon footprint using a five-minute online tool and then pick one action from a range of easy lifestyle options that save CO₂. They can then measure their footprint again to see how much it has reduced as part of "Celebrate your Savings" week in March 2021.

"Find your Footprint" week will include a survey on how people in Northern Devon rate their well-being today, and what improvements they want to see in their own lives and across the county.

To take part in "Find your Footprint" week go to www.carbonsavvy.uk/findyourfootprint where you can take the survey and find out your carbon footprint in just five minutes.
